Internet Use & Email Account Agreement

I, ____________________ (Student–Print Name), am a current student at New England Law | Boston. I agree to use my internet access and email account at New England Law in compliance with the laws, rules, and policies established for law school computer usage. I understand that internet access is available for academic use only and that violations of laws, rules, and policies governing the use of computers may result in civil liability, criminal penalties, suspension of internet activity, or referral to the school disciplinary committee. In addition, I agree to the provisions of the remainder of this document.

1. Student shall not engage in any disruptive or illegal activities. Such activities include, but are not limited to, wire fraud; theft of services; “hacking” (improper use of corporate, private, government-classified or otherwise restricted data); possession of child pornography or other obscene material in computer-usable form; conspiracy; harassing or threatening behavior; defamation; and distribution of computer viruses, worms, or trojan horses.

2. Student shall not transmit, re-transmit, file-share, or publish any material that violates any copyright, patent, or proprietary rights of a third party.

3. Use of the NESL network for commercial purposes is prohibited.

4. Student is responsible for reading official email correspondence sent to his or her nesl.edu address on the first day of classes and thereafter while enrolled at New England Law. The New England Law administration will use the webmail address as an official means of communication and expects that email messages will be received, as well as read in a timely fashion. Email accounts may be used only by the authorized owner of the account, except when otherwise permitted by the system administrators.
